AUTUMN TERM OF CRIMINAL COURT WILL START SOON

The autumn term of criminal court will begin next week, the preliminary matters in the way of arraignments and setting of cases having been started in Judge Stanford's division of the superior court yesterday.

There was only one plea of guilty entered when Louis Esley, an Apache Indian, admitted he was guilty of the larceny of a bicycle. He will be sentenced Friday morning.

Practically all the cases were set for September although the most important case on the docket that of Felipe Solis alias Chamacho charged with the murder of Margarito Avila went over until October 27, at the request of Weldon J. Bailey, counsel for the 18 year old defendant. The preliminary hearing of the boy occupied three days and it is believed that the trial in the superior court will take fully twice that time.

An interesting feature of the preliminary was the effort of the state to introduce a statement of Avila before his death when he charged "Chamacho" with his murder. It was barred out on the ground that it was not a dying declaration of Avila and asserted that when he was able to be out he would "get his would be murderer." Avila who was past middle age, died shortly after he told the authorities his story of the shooting which had a robbery motive. "Chamacho" was taken into custody the following day but his companion Francisco Apadaco said to have been an accomplice, has never been captured by the officers.

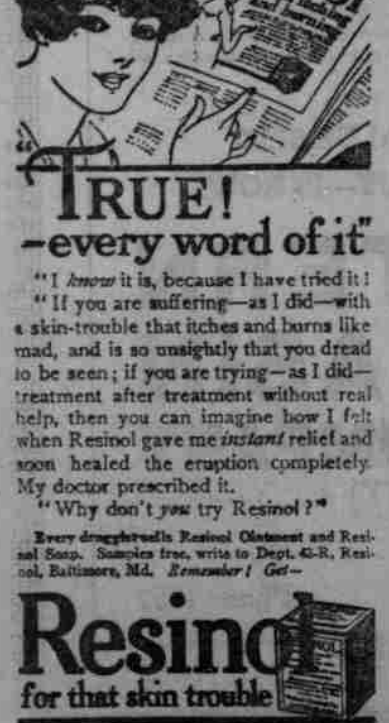

"Rex" Bond, charged with the embezzlement of 11 head of cattle claimed by J. A. Lively was given 24 hours in which to enter his plea when brought before Judge Stanford. A charge of obtaining money and property by means of a bogus check is also lodged against Bond who will enter his plea this morning when he pleads in the other case.

Joe Boschetti pleaded not guilty of the larceny of a bicycle and will be tried by jury on Tuesday.

The case of Antonio Felix who pleaded not guilty to forgery was set for September 18.

Herbert Beardsley, charged with obtaining money and property by a bogus check, will be tried September 10 having entered a plea of not guilty.

C. Vasquez against whom a statutory charge was lodged some months ago pleaded not guilty and his case was set for September 11. The woman in the case is said to be a 13 year old Mexican girl.

HARRIS LOSES LAST VESTIGE OF AUTHORITY

War Department Leaves Him Nothing But Records to Occupy His Mind—In- galls Disbursing Officer

"Water falling day by day will wear the hardest rock away." So likewise under the assaults of the state administration and the war department all the functions of Colonel Harris as adjutant general have been wasted away except that of contemplating the books and accounts of the office, relating only to the status property of which there is none except the said books and accounts.

According to the following telegram yesterday from the chief of the militia bureau there passes out of the hands of Colonel Harris the custodianship of the property of the war department in this state and Captain Ingalls who was appointed by Governor Campbell as successor to Colonel Harris is recognized as disbursing officer.

The Telegram
"In re 27th inst. Captain Ingalls papers received yesterday and he is recognized as National Guard Officer today and your designation of him as Property and Disbursing Officer for Arizona is approved by Secretary of War. Amount of bond should be approximately one half of amount required at any one time plus $10,000 additional to cover property responsibility and accountability. Bond form mailed today with full instructions."

Chief Militia Bureau.
It was learned a few days ago that the secretary of war had directed the issuance of the foregoing order by the chief of the militia bureau.

In the course of the reorganization of the National Guard, the secretary of war has authorized for this state the creation of a squadron of cavalry to consist of four troops of 65 men each and a battery of light artillery, of 120 men and four guns. Under this authorization Governor Campbell yesterday directed Adjutant General Ingalls to proceed with the organization.

AMUSEMENTS

LILY MILK NIGHT BIG PARK FEATURE

"Lily Milk Night" at Riverside—that's Friday night, and from the questions asked and the interest already manifested, this promises to be the biggest of all the special nights, which is going some when one remembers the huge success of "Summer Widow's Night" and "High Cost of Living Night."

The management makes the announcement that from several angles, this feature night will be one of the most novel as well as one of the most enjoyable of them all. To begin with, the dance will be a big spot dance, for every dance will be a spot dance for a prize. These dances are always eagerly looked for by the crowd, a lot of fun for the dancers as well as for those who like to watch them.

Then, every lady attending Riverside next Friday night will be given free a souvenir can of Lily Milk.

Then again, the announcement comes that refreshments will be served, and that the refreshments will include peaches and cream.

From all indications Lily Milk night will be the banner attraction of the season.

Morley's Country Club

Tonight and Friday will be Oriental nights at Morley's. A trip to China-town with all the mysteries of the far east, the club house will be decorated in Chinese colors, flags and Chinese lanterns. The orchestra and entertainer, Miss Williams, will be in costume.

Miss Williams songs so over his, and she is becoming the talk of the town. A pretty girl with a pleasing personality and a voice away above the average is a combination mighty hard to beat. The Chinese band imported direct from China will add a touch of local color to the night's entertainment.

A hop joint will be in full operation. Real China boys will serve noodles to the guests. Spot dances for Chinese novelties. In fact everything that the management can think of to make this a real success has been done. Don't forget the dates Thursday and Friday nights of this week.

At the Strand

"Big Bill" Hart finishes at the Strand his more pleasant engagement in "Branding Broadway" the Artcraft picture which created more of a sensation perhaps than any other picture the big fellow ever made.

This is the first time Bill Hart ever essayed a comedy role, but he gets away with it in great style. His wild attempts to learn the latest cafe dances, his struggle with the steps, his earnest endeavor to "put on the dog" in the brilliantly lighted cabarets; the strangeness of his environment all go toward making "Branding Broadway" the smashing comedy hit it proved to be.

Hart appears as "Bob Sands" a cowboy from Arizona who has accepted the offer of a rich gentleman to tame the son whose escapades are bringing disgrace to the family. He follows the boy everywhere, and a strong friendship springs up between them. More than once some of the hangers on around the bright lights felt the sting of the powerful fist that he drew from the west as he took the part of the young rouser whose ability to get into trouble seemed to be his one outstanding characteristic.

But Hart never got into a fix in any of his pictures that he could not get out of, and he managed to win the girl and take her back to Arizona with him when he had decided that Broadway was too fast for an easy going boy from the desert.

The Mack Sennett comedy augments as well as the Pathe News.

Tomorrow starts the two days engagement of Ethel Clayton in her sensational Paramount picture, "A Sporting Chance."

At the Hip

Today offers the final opportunity for witnessing Dorothy Gish at the Hip theater where she is presenting one of the best pictures she has made thus far, and easily the best comedy of several months in her Paramount vehicle "Nobody Home."

The story of this clever offering centers around a superstitious girl who places the rules against "bad luck" ahead of anything and everything. The result is a rare combination of comedy and refreshing humor, for this little lady cannot move without breaking some of the laws of the superstitious.

She finds it an awful matter to find a sweetheart because every boy she meets according to the rules of superstition will mean bad luck. One of them comes through the house with his hat on his head, a sure sign of misfortune; another wears a black coat, this means a death according to the correct dope; then another breaks a looking glass, and she knows that the most awful luck is in store for him; then, again one walks under a ladder, a sure sign of evil. When finally the right boy does come along, and humors her in all her whims, goes directly according to Hovle so that there will not be a chance for old superstition, then, horrors, on the very day she had set for the wedding, for the first time in a month, it poured down raining, and she knew that it would mean a life of unhappiness were she to become a bride on a rainy day.

"A Fighting Heart" is the added attraction which will also be shown for the final runs today.

Tomorrow comes Dustin Farnum, appearing in "The Virginian."

The Lamara

Once in a while there comes along a picture that cannot help but prove the biggest kind of a hit, for the reason that it pleases everyone and all classes. It is such a picture that Marguerite Clark brings to the Lamara screen for the final showings today where she is presenting Paramount's wonderful picture adaptation of Alice Hegan Rice's immortal "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Marguerite Clark as "Lovey Mary" is simply superb. Her magnetic personality, her sweetness, her screen appearance, her masterful handling of dramatic situations, her remarkable versatility in putting across the humorous side of the nature of the character—all stand her well in hand in handling this role which has been recorded as her greatest contribution to the silent drama.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" tells the life of a little orphan whose love for a little baby left at the orphanage forms the absorbing element of her life. When the child's mother announces she will return for the baby, "Lovey Mary," as the heroine is named, rather than part with the infant she has grown to love, kidnaps him, and flees to the home of a wealthy family nearby. The announced intention of the head of the house to send both the girl and the baby back to the orphanage prompts her to go on to the home of Mrs. Wiggs who looks after the cabbage patch. It is here that the real sweetness of the girl's character is brought to light and she becomes the most beloved girl in the neighborhood. Just how she manages to place the baby in his rightful place in the world, how she wins the love of Billy Wiggs, and of the happiness she finds in the promise to become his wife, are all admirably brought out in this wonderfully human drama.

Tom Mix augments with "Love in the West" with the Burton Holmes traveltogue as an added attraction.

Tomorrow begins the engagement of John Barrymore appearing in "Here Comes the Bride."

FATHER'S ESTATE GOES TO CHILDREN

Lillian Ernestine Davis, 15, and Donald Davis, 14, will share the $5,730 estate of Frank Ernest Davis who accidentally shot himself August 16 while packing his belongings with the intention of moving with his motherless children to Spokane.

The will of the dead man was admitted to probate by Judge Lyman yesterday. It was a simple document drawn the day before he died in which he left his life insurance, cash and personal property to his son and daughter. He named J. E. Horn as executor and Mrs. Lillie Morgan as guardian.

After the death of Mrs. Davis last spring Mrs. Morgan occupied the position of housekeeper in the Davis home. A few weeks ago Davis decided to move to Washington with his family and while packing his trunk came across a revolver which he proceeded to unload. It was while he was unloading the weapon that it exploded with fatal result.
